FIRE WARDEN TO ASK COUNTY CO-OPERATION AGAINST INCENDIARIES

Reward of $100 Offered for Apprehension of Anyone Starting Fires Maliciously

With one state forest employee killed and several others injured fighting man-caused fires, a standing reward of $100 was offered today for the arrest and conviction of any person who maliciously sets a fire or forest fire in California.

The reward, offered by the California Fire Emergency Committee, will be paid to private citizens and not to forest employees of the state or federal government.

In addition to this, counties are co-operating by matching the reward offered by the Fire Emergency Committee. Next Monday, Fire Warden Bert Werder of this county, will appear before the board of supervisors of this county, and ask that body to take this action.

This action, which has the approval of Governor James Rolph, Jr., is designed to bring to justice persons who apply the torch to range or forest land. Several persons in the northern part of the state have already been convicted of starting fires that swept over large areas and caused thousands of dollars in damage.

"Although the California Fire Emergency Committee is receiving splendid co-operation from all parts of the state," said State Forester M.

B. Pratt, executive secretary of the committee, "there are a few cases of misguided individuals, who, through a spirit of viciousness, thoughtlessness or revenge, willfully light fires. Such fires not only do heavy damage, endanger life and property, but also cripple the forest patrol when it is badly needed to fight fires resulting from unpreventable causes."

"We are inviting justices of the peace to cooperate fully with local forest officials in weeding out such offenders. We have instructed all our forest supervisors that before leniency may be recommended in the case, they must first obtain approval of the state division of forestry."

Public cooperation alone can stamp out man-caused fires in California, the state forester believes. An aroused citizenry will report to police officials every case where a fire is maliciously started, so the culprit may be brought to justice.

"It is hoped that county boards of supervisors will match this $100 reward," he continued. "This cause of fire will be eliminated only when every person realizes that it is his duty to his state to report such cases."

Drunk Drivers Of Hay Press Get Suspended Terms

Many a man has been jailed for drunk driving, or as the attorneys call it, incarcerated for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating stimulants. It has been a long time, however, since any one has been jailed here for driving a haypress while drunk.

Officer Wyckoff of Woodside, noticed two men piloting a haypress drawn by seven mules. The mules were following a devious course which occupied, according to the officer, about 90 per cent of the road. The two men who were driving the team, he found, to be sadly under the influence of liquor. Wyckoff sent word to the county jail and Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Neri and Leland Quinlan brought the offenders to Redwood City, where they were charged with disturbing the peace, as the motor vehicle act has no section on haypresses.

The men gave their names as John Ohman and Robert Brown, both farmers. The two were sentenced by Justice of the Peace Perry Jackson to terms of 30 days each in jail, but the sentence was suspended for six months.

Kiwanians Told of Poetry in Nature By Verse Writer

Oakland Club Conducts Lunch
Meeting for Redwood
Service Club

A very novel and interesting meeting was enjoyed by members of the Redwood City Kiwanis club, Wednesday, the meeting being arranged by members of the Oakland Kiwanis club. About thirty members of the Oakland club came to Redwood City for the meeting, and later for a golf tournament on the Stanford course.

The chairman of the meeting was Peet Gray, well-known member of the Oakland club. The speaker was Will R. Hill, secretary of the Oakland club, who spoke on the topic, "Poetry in Everyday Life." His talk consisted chiefly of recitations of original compositions, and of so unusual and interesting a nature that it was proclaimed one of the most interesting talks heard by the local club.

Solo numbers were rendered by Ernest McCandless and Dick Lungen, both members of the Oakland club. Among the distinguished visitors present were Don E. Rice, district governor; Jarvis Price, field representative of Kiwanis International; and Dr. Ben Black, district trustee from the Oakland club.

Feud Over Cattle Puts One in Jail

Old Warrant Served as Man
Calls at Jail to Ask Protection

E. A. Tassi, a cattleman, called at the county jail on Wednesday and asked that a deputy sheriff accompany him to the ranch of Frank Vera, another cattleman. Tassi charged that Vera had threatened his life.

At the jail, however, Deputy Sheriff Belton Rhodes remembered that a warrant for the arrest of Tassi had been issued out of the court of Justice of the Peace Edward I. McAuliffe, last October, and had been awaiting service. The warrant was issued on a charge of battery preferred by Vera against Tassi. The dispute between the two men was the result of a deal in cattle.

They are Ruth Adams of Redwood City; Ethel and Lorraine Boner, San Mateo; Mabel Janet Backus, Oxnard; Madeleine Pretz, Mountain View; Gemma Flannagan, Burlingame; Mary Aileen Ross, San Francisco and Elizabeth Van Heese, San Francisco. The tests were conducted in the campus pool of the College of Notre Dame at Belmont.

The three additions to the squad were appointed by the motor vehicle department from a list of applicants forwarded to the department recently by the board of supervisors of this county.

South City Fire Perils Homes as Dry Grass Burns

Second Big Grass Fire Gives Fire Fighters Hours of Arduous Labor

For the second time within a week South San Francisco residents were periled when a grass fire surrounded them. The latest conflagration occurred Tuesday afternoon, when several hundred acres of grass land were burned over in the vicinity of Peck's Hill, and the flames surrounded a number of residences.

Volunteer fire fighters aided the South San Francisco fire department under the direction of Chief Alex Welte, and the flames were beaten out in the vicinity of the houses before any serious damage was done. A high wind, and the dry condition of the grass made fighting very difficult, and the firemen fought the flames for more than an hour before they were brought under control. During the fire, the traffic conditions on the Bayshore highway were rendered dangerous by the heavy clouds of smoke which swept across the highway.

The other fire which periled South San Francisco homes was one which swept over from Brisbane-on-the-Bay early in the week and endangered a number of South City residences.

Damage Suit for Menlo Car Crash

A suit for $10,000 damages has been filed in the superior court of this county as the result of an automobile accident which occurred in Menlo Park, on July 19 of last year. The plaintiff in the action is Roxie Johnson who charges that as a result of the accident she received scars on her face which are of a permanent nature. She charges that she was riding in a car driven by Charles G. Johnson, when it was struck by a truck driven by Ray Montgomery. Montgomery is named as defendant in the suit.

Cars Turn Over South of Town

A car driven by Frank Andrew Brayton, base hospital, Menlo Park, and in which Fred Martin, also of the base hospital, was riding, turned over on the highway a short distance south of town, Tuesday night at 10:55. The driver suffered slight injuries consisting chiefly of cuts about the face, and was taken to the Community hospital. The accident was investigated by Officers Fogarty and Hogan of the Redwood City police department.

Spilled Tomatoes Go To Poor Farm

Truckload Spills on Bridge as Truck Crashes Into Light
Standard

"It's an ill wind that does nobody some good," and a wrecked truck on the San Mateo-Hayward bridge meant fresh tomatoes for the inmates of the county relief home. The truck was owned by Louis Mondo of Merced, and was loaded with boxes of ripe tomatoes from Mondo's ranch, bound for San Francisco. Near the middle of the bridge the truck collided with one of the light standards, and tomatoes were thrown profusely over and on the bridge.

The truck was disabled, and by crashing through the light standard, placed the bridge in total darkness as well as cutting off telephone communication. Word was sent to James Eubanks, superintendent of the county relief home, and a truck was sent to pick up some of the tomatoes. Passing motorists also were told to help themselves to the fruit.

EXCHANGE CLUB'S 5TH ANNUAL WATER PARTY PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Fancy Diving and Fast Swimming Feature
Evening's Entertainment at High School Pool

Despite a chilling wind which gave rather the impression of December than of July, the Exchange Club's fifth annual water carnival, Tuesday evening, attracted a crowd of more than a hundred enthusiastic spectators, and proved a most successful event, as these affairs always have done. A large number of swimmers participated, and some exceptional swimming and diving was shown.

One of the outstanding features of the evening was the swimming of the three Goldthwaite brothers, each of whom captured a first place in the meet.

No feature of the evening was received with such enthusiasm as the fancy diving of 8-year-old Bunny Parker of Alameda, who performed many difficult dives in a manner which would have done credit to a swimmer of many more years of experience than she. Bunny Parker is a protegee of Mrs. Bunny Russ, formerly Bunny Fergus, former national women's champion, who was also present and did a number of fancy dives.

The competitive events of the evening were run with the following results:

Key—(S) Sequoia; (P) Palo Alto; (O) Olympic Club; (W) W. C. Western Women's Club; (A) Alameda; (N) Neptune; (R) C. Redwood City.

50-yard free style—Won by Frank Goldthwaite (S); Clumbeck and Cordes (P) tied for second. Time 1:02.6.

100-yard breast stroke—Won by Martin (S); Adams (S) second. Tuxford (S) third. Time 1:19.4.

220-yard free style—Won by Woods (unattached); Pilling (O) second, Gilman (A) third. Time 2:36.

100-yard free style—Won by Frank Goldthwaite (S); Cook (P) second, Draper (P) third. Time 1:02.5.

50-yard free style, girls—Won by Gilman (W) C. Russ (W) C. second, Sandoe (P) A. and Corlis (N) tied for third. Time 0:32.8.

Fancy diving—Won by Thorndson, (O) C.; Carroll (O) C. second, Starha (O) C. third. Time, 0:33.6.

25-yard free style—Won by Roger Goldthwaite (S); Buckhalter (A), Davis and Abbott (R) W. tied for third. Time, 0:14.

100-yard free style, junior—Won by Martin (S); Stewart Goldthwaite (S), second, Gibbs (S) third. Time, 1:03.9.

Comedy diving—Won by Buzz Wilson (N); Bert Hare (N) second. The most amusing part of the program was the comedy diving event which produced many new and unique styles including the "Drunk-sisters," the "hesitation," "sliding home dive," "delayed one and a half," and many others.

The carnival was completed by an exhibition water polo game played by two pick-up teams designated as the whites and blues. This was won by the blues with a score of 2 to 1. Marian Gilman, representing the Western Women's Club, and member of the American Olympic team of 1928, gave an exhibition back stroke. Miss Gilman was also the winner of the 50-yard free style for women. Mrs. Russ came in second in this event, while a tie for third place occurred between Peggy Corliss (N), and Winifred Sandoe (P) A.

Barbecue Held
Preceding the water carnival the Exchange held a large barbecue which was participated in by the members of the Kiwanis, Lions and Yomcan clubs, as well as visiting Exchangees.

The meeting was presided over by Assistant District Attorney Edmund Scott, president of the club. Among the prominent Exchange members who were present were Ralph Wright, former state president, and George Hagey, first state vice-president. The general chairman in charge of the affair was John Garland, county milk inspector.

The swimming meet was planned by a committee consisting of James Eva, chairman; Robert Murphy, Kendall Towne and John H. Poole.

County Receives $25,888 Interest For Public Funds

Three and a Half Million In Interest Paid Counties
Of California

By HOME L. ROBERTS

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 16 (UP)—Three and a half million dollars a year is being collected by the 58 counties of California as interest on county money placed on deposit.

This was disclosed here this week in a compilation by State Controller Ray L. Riley. As the result of a general lowering of rates paid by banks, building and loan companies and other investment organizations, the interest receipts for the present 2 years may not be so large.

Of the total of $3,406,953 received by the counties last year, $3,126,557 represented receipts from current deposits which the balance of $250,396 was derived from invested funds.

San Mateo county exacted a total of $25,888 in interest for the year, Riley's report showed.

Los Angeles, largest county in California, collected more than half the amount received by all the counties of the state or $1,871,496. The larger part of this amount, or $1,801,344, came from current deposits placed in local banks.

San Francisco's interest collections totaled $1,956,763, but this amount, of course, included interest received by both city and county. The smallest amount collected in interest by any county government was $1,389 by Trinity county. Alpine, smallest county of California in point of population, stood one step higher than Trinity with total receipts of $1,373, representing interest on county funds placed on deposit.

Ed Scott Given Honor by K. of C.

Edmund Scott of this city and assistant district attorney of San Mateo county, has again been honored by the state organization of the Knights of Columbus. Word of his reappointment as district deputy for San Mateo and Santa Clara counties was received here Wednesday from Los Angeles. Other appointments included Joseph O'Connor as state chairman and Christopher D. McKeon, chairman of the finance committee.

Loco Weed Seller Given Probation

Julius Martinez, arrested at Daly City last June, for the illegal sale of marijuana or loco weed, was admitted to probation by Superior Judge Geo. H. Buck, for two years, yesterday, on condition that he serve three months in the county jail. Attorney William B. Gloria of San Francisco, defended Martinez, while the case was prosecuted by District Attorney Franklin Swart.

Archie R. Bremer, San Mateo, accused of burglarizing Levy Bros. store in San Mateo, was sentenced to two years' probation and ordered to leave the county by Judge Buck.

Gas Tax Money Now Available For City Work

New Bill Will Permit of Use
By Supervisors on City Streets

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, July 16—(UP)—For the first time in the history of the state, funds from the state gasoline tax will be available for the improvement of streets in Redwood City after August 14.

Passage by the legislature of senate bill No. 290, and its subsequent approval by Governor Rolph, marked the first step in a change of policy regarding the expenditure of gasoline tax funds—a step hailed by the cities as a more truly equitable arrangement.

Under the terms of the measure, the counties' share of the tax shall be placed in a road improvement fund and used "exclusively in the construction and maintenance of roads, bridges and culverts in the county."

"But," the new law provides, "the board of supervisors of any county may in its discretion expend any portion of such sums so received in the construction, maintenance and repair of streets, bridges and culverts within those incorporated cities there in the legislative bodies of which by ordinance or resolution authorize such work."

In the past virtually all of the funds realized from the gasoline tax have been expended on state or county roads entirely outside the cities within the limits of which most of the gasoline taxpayers reside.

The fight to bring some relief to the urban population from the standpoint of street expenses, has been carried on for several years, but only was successful this year after a bitter struggle in both houses of the legislature.

In a few isolated cases the state, out of its share of the tax, has assumed the cost of certain arterial highways within the limits of incorporated cities.

The state department of public works, however, has indicated a program in which this type of work will be increased as a part of the more broad interpretation of the tax administration law. Combined with the statute giving a county similar authority, should provide substantial relief for the cities.

An English View

An Englishman views the depression which has held this country in its grip, and gives his opinions. The following pointed paragraphs are a summing up of the depression by Herbert N. Casson, editor of the Efficiency Magazine of London.

"You are depressed. You think you are crippled. You are afraid of the future. You are full of fears.

"You have half the gold of the world and half the machinery and most of the automobiles and all the skyscrapers.

"You have the greatest home market in the world and the largest corporations that the world has ever seen.

"You are ruled more by ideas and less by tradition than any other people in the world. You have usually done what you thought you could do.

"The prices that were forced too high had to come down. Today all the prices are too low.

"There is now a golden opportunity for every man who has eyes to see it.

Dollars are now being sold for 30 cents. Practically every security in the United States is now being sold at less than its value.

"The way to create a fortune is to buy from pessimists. Pay your money and take the risk.

Frick started his career by buying coke ovens in the slump of 1873. Carnegie made $300,000,000 by buying steel plants in the slumps.

"Hundreds of fortunes have been made by buying from pessimists. Ye Gods, what a chance there is at this moment!

"In five years from now, most American business men will belong to the 'I Wish I Had Club.'

"Then it will be too late to buy a dollar for 30 cents. The opportunity will be gone.

"When a horse balks, the balk is in his head, not in his legs. He moves on when he thinks he will.

"And when an American business man is depressed, the slump is in his head. There is nothing serious to prevent him from making money if he thinks he will.

"When fear rules the will, nothing can be done, but when a man casts fear out of his mind, the world becomes his oyster.

"To lose a bit of money is nothing, but to lose hope—or lose nerve and ambition—that is what makes men cripples.

"This silly depression has gone on long enough. Get rid of it. It is inside of you. Rise and walk."

Sense and Fads in Food

The lady who went into a restaurant and asked the waiter for an order of calories, some vitamins in assorted flavors A, B, C and D, and a side order of roughage, may soon be extinct. That is if the people are willing to accept the advice of the experts of the state department of agriculture. These dietitians give seven rules for eating which will appeal to most of us. They are:

1. Select food for nutrition, digestibility, palatability, laxative elements. Don't stuff. Eat just "enough."
2. Avoids foods that you personally dislike.
3. Maintain regular hours for eating.
4. Cultivate a leisurely attitude at meal-time.
5. Establish a pleasant frame of mind before each meal. Avoid discussion of business matters at luncheon.
6. Masticate! Don't count the chews, but chew until every bite becomes fluid.
7. Don't wash food down with coffee or water. Drink several glasses of water between meals.

In other words, the matter sums itself up rather much like a little verse popular in the days of your paternal great grandmother:

Eat when you're hungry,
Drink when you're dry,
And if something don't kill you
You'll live till you die.

A Fact That Must Be Recognized

The sooner the people of this country realize that neither congress nor the president can change world conditions, and begin to adjust themselves to a new order of things, the sooner we will be out of the woods and on the way to substantial prosperity.

Pay your bills and the other fellow can pay his and industries can go back on full time schedules. That is the short cut to prosperous times.

A Bit of Engineering

We recently saw one of the generators which supply power to the whole northern section of California. This particular generator contains an armature which weighs two hundred tons.

In our home we have a little electric clock whose motor revolves in exact step with the giant generator. The perfecting of a piece of machinery to a point where a moving part weighing two hundred tons swings around with a surface speed of two miles a minute, and yet with such regularity that its motions can be used for telling time—well, that strikes us as a fine piece of engineering.

When one considers, too, that not only does this great machine maintain so even a pace that clocks run year after year without variation from its current, but that same machine produces energy which runs trains, melts steel, grinds rock, huris radio waves across the ocean, mixes your milkshake, photographs your skeleton, or drills out your teeth—in fact a million and one different tasks from the heaviest to the most delicate—then admiration knows no bounds.

Another development in connection with this powerful machine is its use in connection with the telephone. When an installation now under way is completed, the large wires which carry a charge of 220,000 volts from the power plant to distributing points all over the state, will carry also the delicate vibrations of the voice. The high power electric lines will be used as telephone cables, neither function interfering with the other.

The Editorial Circuit Rider

(A symposium of editorial comment from California newspapers)

Aviation can no longer be looked upon as a novelty. Editorial recognition of man's most modern means of transportation as an important business factor is given by California newspapers in tracing the most recent developments of this rapidly growing industry.

Attention of the editors was called by the United States department of commerce report pointing out that scheduled air services have developed to the extent that 650 planes of 44 companies on 44 routes, are flying more than 130,000 "safe" miles every 24 hours.

"A new industry, an infant now, but destined to become a giant within the next decade, probably will rule the business cycle of our country in the near future. That industry is aviation," claims the Pomona Progress-Bulletin.

The Vallejo Times-Herald joins in this opinion and asserts that "in spite of the skeptics, the hazards, the problems to overcome, flying as a business is rapidly coming to the fore."

"A few years ago people wanted an efficient and far-reaching air mail, commercial passenger and express line, and an adequate air force," the Alameda Times-Star observes. "All of these wishes have been gratified as if by magic, so rapidly has been aviation's development."

"But," says the Orange Daily News in commenting on the growth of standard airways, "there is room for a great deal more use of the air. The number of conservatives who have never been up in an airplane at all is still rather large."

Again referring to the department of commerce reports, The Sacramento Bee recalls that "at the close of 1930 there were 1,782 airports in operation, 15,258 miles of lighted airways maintained by the government," and believes these official statistics "are most gratifying and give promise of continued increase during the next few years."

"There'll come a day," The Merced Sun-Star quotes aviation leaders as claiming, "when industry will look to airplane manufacturers as well as automobile makers for huge orders. Then the country will have two mighty factors in regulating the demand for raw materials, and steadying the rocking boat of prosperity."

As a closing argument pointing towards the increased safety of airplanes, numbers of California papers called attention to the fact that army pilots at the aerial demonstration staged recently flew 2,000,000 miles without a fatality, when the law of averages called for it at least six deaths.

Protect the Pets Along the Highways

Maybe it could be termed murder, or maybe it could be termed carelessness or disregard, but whatever it is, at the rate it is going on now, there will be very few dogs left. A motor trip over any heavily traveled highway will show one that a dog hasn't a Chinaman's chance as he is a pedestrian on the highway.

Chickens, rabbits and cats, too find it dangerous to attempt to cross a highway. Some persons no doubt think it sport to run down a chicken running for its life. But what does it matter? If only a chicken, it may be some woman's hen who is trying hard to eke out a living from her chickens and eggs, and probably you killed her best layers, or may be it was some little girl's pet chicken. But what does it matter?

What does it matter if it's only a dog? But whose dog? Who at times loved that dog as if he was the only friend they had? Who feels the loss of that dog, when he fails to return home, after your automobile has left it on the highway, its life crushed out?

What does it matter, it is only a little child? A little girl, or a little boy on an errand for his or her mother. Its life crushed out by a single blow from your automobile. A family stricken with grief. An innocent life sent Heavenward, a heartbroken mother and father. But what does it matter? Would it matter if it was your chicken or your little girl's cat or dog? Would it matter if it were YOUR dog? Would it matter if it were your little girl or boy? Give them all a chance.

GAY ADVENTURERS BY MILDRED BARBOUR

The Count was standing at the entrance to the arbor, his face white with anger.

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS

SHEILA ALLEN, bound for Europe in a tourist cabin, has a cabin-mate.

CONSTANCE KERR, a millionaire's daughter, who is her twin in looks, Sheila, after years in a rural town, is seeking adventure.

She has refused to marry her guardian, YOUNG DOCTOR MALCOM BAXTER. Constance tells Sheila she is Heaven-sent—a means of escape from a terrible mess.

Constance is fleeing from her husband, THE COUNT DE BELLEFONTE, whom she married that morning.

She consented to marry him after a quarrel with HARRY EDMONDS, with whom she is desperately in love.

His letters begging her forgiveness are kept from her by her mother. She finds them immediately after her marriage. Realizing that she can never be the Count's wife, she takes passage for Europe at once. Harry is in England.

She begs Sheila to impersonate her in Paris for a few days, while she seeks Harry in London, to try to find a way out of her nuddle. Sheila, scenting adventure a-gress, Constance gives Sheila her clothes and coaches her for the role she is to play. A first-class passenger.

TOMMY FITZGERALD, an old beau of Constance's, sees Sheila and hails her as Constance. Sheila tells him he has made a mistake.

At Southampton Constance leaves the ship as Sheila Allen, with all of Sheila's effects, including her passport.

At Harve, Fitzgerald sees Sheila with Constance's passport and she says she is the heiress, and explains the tourist passage as payment of a bet. A strange woman embraces her as an old friend.

There she receives a message from the Count, who is in Paris.

Harry Edmonds arrives in Paris. Sheila is panic-stricken. She wonders where Constance is.

To escape both Harry and the informs her aunt in Baden-Baden that her niece is ill. The aunt radios Mr. Kerr, who radios Sheila that he is coming to Paris.

She succeeds in convincing Aunt Sophia that her presence is not required in Paris. A message from Mr. Kerr tells that the his yacht is disabled and that he cannot come to Paris for some time.

Harry urges her to marry him immediately. She puts him off. The Baronne is angry, for she wants a clear field for her stepson, CARLO, whom she is anxious to marry off.

To keep Harry pacified, Sheila agrees to announcing their engagement shortly.

Chapter 29—

A Promise And Its Consequences.

Harry Edmonds was so elated at Sheila's promise that she would permit their engagement to be announced at the end of the time during which she had told the Count de Bellefante she would consider his proposal of marriage that he left the Baronne's villa in a most exuberant mood.

Sheila had no difficulty whatever in making him believe that the arrival of unexpected guests had so crowded the household that it would be necessary to put him up at a hotel.

The party was really small, but he would not be likely to know that, since the house was always filled with guests from neighboring villas.

The Baronne accepted the situation with a great deal of good-will. "Please keep him out of Carlo's way," she implored. "Fortunately, young Mr. Edmonds is one of these athletic, ball-chasing Americans, whereas Carlo likes the seclusion of his study, so they will not meet often, if you exercise any degree of tact."

Sheila promised to do her best. However, it was with the Count and not with Harry that Carlo had the quarrel that almost brought Sheila's career as an impersonator to an end.

For several days things had gone along so quietly that she had begun to feel almost tranquil. There had been no word from Constance, but there had been no disquieting messages from her father and mother. Bellefante and Harry had been exemplary in conduct.

By riding with Harry in the morning, motoring with the Count in the afternoon, and devoting herself to Carlo during dinner, Sheila managed rather well.

The Baronne told her every day how interesting Carlo found her.

"The dear boy is up every day at three o'clock," said the Baronne, "and he's all eagerness for the dinner-hour. I've never seen him show so much interest in any woman."

Sheila detailed this conversation to Harry, who laughed and told her he was furiously jealous.

The Count had brought Sheila home from a motor-ride that had taken the greater part of the afternoon, and was looking at some old points in the library while he waited for a member of the house-party who was bound for his host's home.

Sheila had gone into the garden to see whether tea was ready. It was, and Carlo was dispensing it.

"I'll call the others," she said, starting for the house.

"No, no," Carlo stopped her with an imperious gesture. "I have something to say to you. Sheila, my mother tells me you are very fond of me, and I—"

"Please," she begged, "The Count is waiting for me in the library. He may come here any moment."

Carlo rose, seized her hand, and kissed it.

"It is my mother's wish—" he began, but the look in Sheila's eyes caused him to pause. Then, "That is it?" he asked and glanced over his shoulder in the direction in which she was starting.

The Count was standing at the entrance to the arbor, his face white with anger. Striding up to Carlo, he pushed him into a chair. Then he bowed to Sheila.

"This person is annoying you?" he asked.

"What is the meaning of this?" spluttered Carlo. "Get out of here, or I'll call the servants and have you thrown out. Apologize at once to Miss Kerr. You have interrupted my proposal of marriage."

"Indeed!" said the Count ironically. "How interesting! Let me inform you that I too have proposed to Miss Kerr. She accepted me, and she is now my fiancée."

Sheila screamed. "Jean, Jean! What are you saying?"

The terror in her voice made him pause a moment. Then he finished defiantly: "my fiancée."

Even in her moment of panic, Sheila realized that some deadly enmity existed between the two men. The Count was paying off an score, and paying it off handsomely. Carlo glared at him, for a moment, and then rushed into the house.

"Oh, Jean," wailed Sheila, "how could you? Think of what you've done. You've ruined everything. He'll tell the Baronne, and she'll tell father—and every one else."

The Count passed his hand over his brow.

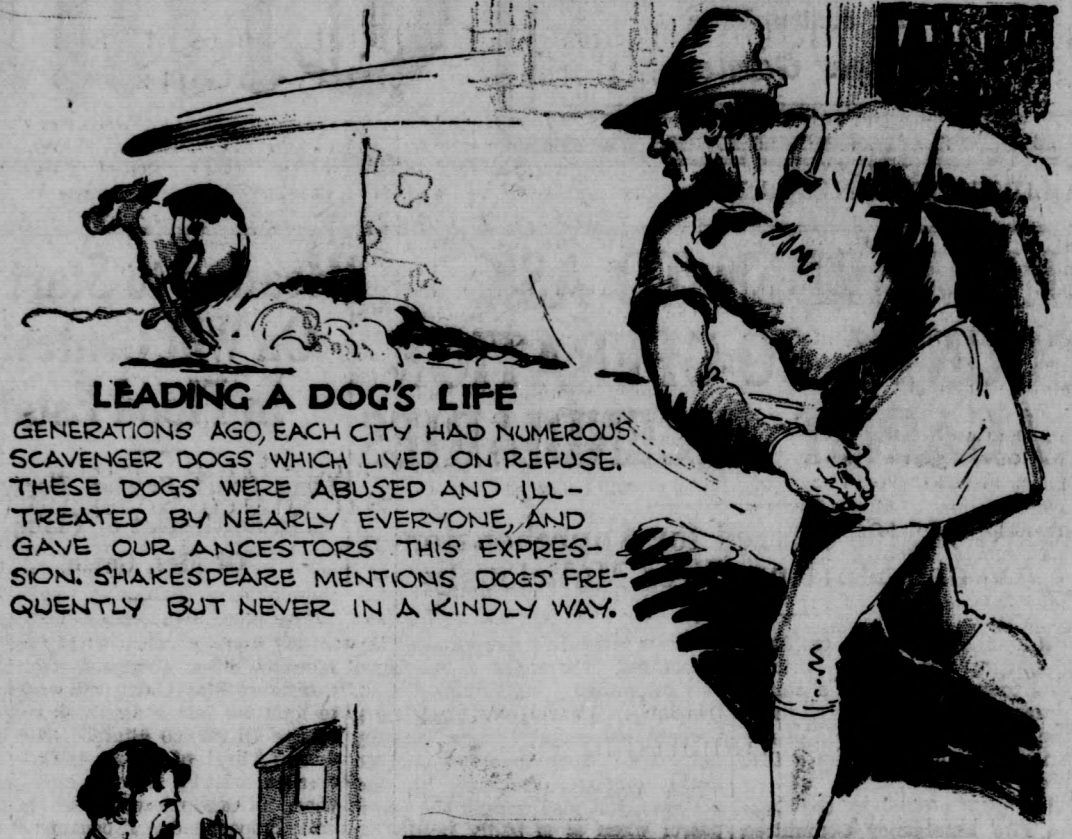

"You're right," he said. "But I couldn't help it. We've been enemies for years. It was my chance to pay him out."

"I'm going to my room," said Sheila wearily. "The next move is up to some one else. You might explain to the Baronne that you spoke hastily—that you were furiously jealous. But I don't suppose it will help matters."

The Baronne was attending a garden-party that afternoon, but Carlo reached her by telephone. She was torn between delight at having so excellent a story to tell her fellow guests, and anger at Sheila.

Although he urged her to come at once, she remained another hour, whispering the news to every one, explaining that the announcement was probably unofficial, but true, nevertheless.

"Harry Edmonds will rave when he hears this," said one of the women. "He's mad about Constance Kerr—absolutely mad. I'll tell him when I see him at the hotel tonight."

And that explains why Harry rushed out to the Baronne's villa early in the evening and insisted on seeing Sheila, who was dining in her sitting-room in solitary state.

"Leave this to me," he told her. "I'll fix that lying Bellefante. I'll have him out here, apologizing his head off before the evening is over."

Only I hope he puts up a fight. I've been longing to thrash him ever since I first laid eyes on him."

He rushed off and Sheila sat alone, wondering whether she ought to attempt an explanation to the Baronne. But she didn't feel equal to the task, so she told the maid that she was indisposed and then retired.

An hour later Harry sent her a message that drove all thoughts of sleep from her mind.

BUILDERS OF CALIFORNIA

The Cow that "goes to School"

EXCITEMENT RUNS HIGH as a sleek cow and calf arrive at the school yard.

With this traveling exhibit and a lecturer, California Dairy Council gives many city children their first "close-up" of real dairy animals—and an unforgettable lesson in the health value of milk.

More than 350,000 children in this state receive milk at school. Yet this consumption is but a fraction of the total. Annual sales of California dairy products exceed 150 million dollars!

This great industry uses Bank of America's service on a continuous, statewide scale. No less than 12,000 milk producers, as well as some 300 manufacturers and distributors of dairy products, are depositors in this Bank.

Commercial funds and workers' savings—deposited in many Bank of America branches—are transformed into sound commercial credit that assists dairymen and all branches of the industry.

Among other services, the Bank collects payment for domestic and export shipments of butter, cheese and condensed and powdered milk—and transfers funds to or from any market in the world.

Bank of America's co-operation with such basic industries assures protective, statewide distribution of the Bank's resources. Does not this policy appeal to you?

CHAPLIN GOES LIMIT TO FILM HIS LATEST

Having declared that he considers the talking picture an inferior medium of screen entertainment to the silent motion picture production, Charlie Chaplin backs his opinion with the presentation of "City Lights," a romantic comedy photoplay now being shown at the Broadway Burlingame Theatre, which is synchronized with music and sound effects.

At no time is the human voice heard in "City Lights." It is the comedian-producer's contention that dialogue limits the field of expression and being primarily a pantomime artist, he regards silence as the best medium for him and the characters he portrays. Chaplin adds that he is not being prejudiced in the stand he has taken but that he is merely carrying on in what he believes a superior art form.

"City Lights" is heralded as Chaplin's supreme effort. Of considerable significance are the facts that reveal that Chaplin expended $1,500,000 of his own money and close to three years of time in the making of this photoplay.

From sources close to Chaplin it is learned that the comedian's enthusiasm over "City Lights" is greater than he has ever before evidenced. It is believed that this production will pave the way for more non-dialogue pictures and to start renewed activity in studios as well as in theatres. Chaplin's film is the first of any importance to come out of Hollywood in close to three years, in silent form.

Many are of the opinion that Chaplin will write history with his production "City Lights." It is believed that the genius of pantomime will achieve a success, which will at a single gesture overthrow the tradition that pictures simply must talk.

ARTHUR RODZINSKI WILL CONDUCT WOODLAND GROUP

The open air concert in the Woodland Theatre next Sunday afternoon which will be conducted by Arthur Rodzinski, permanent conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, will be devoted for the most part to the music of composers who are classified as of the "modern school."

One of the definite policies of the Philharmonic Society of San Mateo County, now in the sixth season of successful operation, which sponsors these delightful programs on Sunday afternoons during the summer, is the inclusion each year of a certain number of the works of contemporary composers interspersed with the performance of the familiar classics. The music committee for the Philharmonic concerts at Hillsborough, of which Mrs. Leonora Army is chairman, have constantly striven to arrange programs for these Sunday concerts which will be both pleasing and entertaining and assure an interesting variation from the winter series of concerts. How well they have succeeded is amply demonstrated by steadily increasing attendance which has marked each season's concerts.

STUDY PROPOSED OF DRIFT IN CALIFORNIA'S HARBORS

By MELVIN LORD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 16 (UP)—Shifting sands and vagrant ocean currents constant threat against California beaches and harbors.

Because of this a recommendation has been made to Governor Rolph that immediate steps be taken to initiate a long term study of the movement of beach sands and the action of currents and waves upon breakwaters, and other beach and harbor improvement projects.

"Through the constant shifting of sand and harbor bars, and erosion, shore lines and harbor bottoms tend to change to a striking degree and oftentimes in an undesirable direction," Morrough O'Brien, assistant professor of the department of mechanical engineering, University of California, stated.

"In many cases it may be within man's power to control these changes or to alter their direction, but before anything can be done, the forces must be studied, and an accurate determination of how and why they work must be made."

Prominent engineers throughout the state point out that the need for immediate action arises from the fact that beaches and harbors are being developed with jetties, breakwaters, groins, dredging programs, etc., at a cost of millions of dollars—all without complete date on what effect these improvements will have on the coast line of the future.

The need of inaugurating such a survey at once is increased by the fact that the work is necessarily

Coast League
Develops Stars

It may be the sunshine, and then again it may be the soft winds that rustle through the palm fronds, but whatever the reason the Pacific Coast league continues to lead all other minor groups in producing major league baseball stars.

Six of 1931's outstanding rookies—Johnny Vergez of the Giants, Buzz Arlett of the Phillies, Ernie Lombardi of the Robins, Vernon Gomez of the Yankees, Wes Schulmerich of the Braves and Marvin Owen of the Tigers—all graduates of the Far West League.

Probably the most successful of this sextet is Vergez whose work at third base has more than justified Manager John McGraw's faith in him. At present Vergez is hitting above .300, leads his club in runs driven in and has hit nearly a dozen homers. Afield he has displayed a dash and confidence worthy of a veteran. Many fans criticized McGraw when he moved his regular third baseman, Freddie Lindstrom, to right field in favor of Vergez; that criticism has stopped long ago.

Arlett Another Veteran Player

Arlett, who was allowed to linger on the Coast until well past 30, has come in for more attention than any other 1931 rookie. At the start of the season Arlett was unable to get going, but before the season was three weeks old the elephantine outfielder was pounding the ball to all corners of the lot and fielding in a highly capable manner. Arlett was leading the league with a mark of .348 up until a few weeks ago when he broke a finger on his throwing hand and was forced to the bench.

The big Phillie slugger hits from either side of the plate, being one of the few capable switch-hitters in the majors. His work has made the Philadelphia fans forget the trade that sent Lefty O'Doul to the Robins. Lombardi, while not a regular, has shown in the games he has played that his reputation as a slugger is not without foundation. A little more experience behind the plate and Ernie will be ready to start his share of games.

Gomez Very Fine Prospect

Gomez was up for a spell in 1930, but this is the young lefthander's first complete major league campaign. He is rated as the best pitching prospect the Yanks have had in many a season. It was Gomez who stepped out on the hill and broke the worldchampion Athletics' string of 17 straight victories.

Schulmerich, while he has not been able to maintain the same batting pace in the majors that he set in the minors, is hitting just below .300 and gives promise of developing into one of the real sluggers of the league. He has a good eye and takes a tremendous cut at the ball.

Owen hit around .300 for Seattle last year but has been unable to do that good in the majors. He is hitting some 50 points lower, but his first-class fielding more than has made up for his lack of punch at the plate.

HARVARD AND YALE TO MEET ENGLISH TEAM

LONDON, July 16 (UP).—Yale and Harvard meet Oxford and Cambridge on July 18 at Stamford Bridge in the annual Anglo-American varsity track and field meet.

The visiting United States team, on the basis of records and performance, is expected to win seven or eight events in the 12 event program. The combined forces of Yale and Harvard last met in the visiting British athletes.

W. W. Boyd of Yale, N. P. Halliwell of Harvard, E. E. Record, Harvard; J. P. Crowley, Yale; O. Sutermeister, Harvard, are American athletes expected to win events in which they are entered.

The two hurdle races between E. E. Record and R. N. Tisdall should be great events. Record, fresh from his victory in the high hurdles and second in the low hurdles in the I. C. A. A. A. meet, should defeat Tisdall in the 120 yard hurdles, but the outcome of the 220 yard low hurdles is extremely doubtful. Tisdall, Cambridge track president is the athlete who on a chilly afternoon last March won four events in the Oxford-Cambridge meet to establish an all-time record for the number of first places won in a single meet.

The Yale and Harvard team arrived at Plymouth on July 8. The coming meet should attract a large gate, since an admission charge of only 25 cents is being made.

PHOENIX SPRINTER ENTERS U. S. C.

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 16 (UP).—Harry Tompkins, the greatest runner developed by the Phoenix high school, has cast his lot with the University of Southern California, a school noted for its fine runners, and will enter that institution as a freshman next fall.

Thus, it is probable that Tompkins will follow in the footsteps of Charles Borah, a Phoenix boy who made track history for the Trojans.

In four years of high school competition which is permitted in Arizona, Tompkins was never defeated and ran everything from the mile to the 100-yard dash. His best record was 9.8 seconds for the century, made in the spring of 1931.

25 MILLION ILLUSION FADES

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., (UP).—J. Kubek's illusion that he had $25,000,000 coming to him faded as he regained his sobriety, and when he appeared in police court he was unable to pay a fine of $25 on a charge of public intoxication. He was jailed for five days. Kubek asked the arresting officer to collect the money for him.

DETROIT HAS TWO STANDOUT ROOKIES

DETROIT, July 13. (UP).—The Detroit Tigers' roster lists two of the standout rookies successes of the 1931 season. They are Hubie Walker and Marvin Owen.

From the time he first set foot on the Tigers' training grounds in California, Walker has appealed to Manager Bucky Harris as a first class fly-chaser. His hitting ability, however, was doubtful at the start and remained that way for some time after the current season opened.

In recent weeks the young outfielder has been hitting the ball solidly, standing at the plate with increased confidence and maintaining an aggressive attitude toward the pitchers even when the count is against him.

Owen's short big league career has been even more remarkable than Walker's. Although he has played each of the four infield positions for Detroit this season in an acceptable manner, Harris is reported to be grooming Owen for the third base berth now held by Marty McManus, veteran of ten seasons in the majors.

Owen completed his first year in professional baseball last month. After being graduated from Santa Clara (California) College he joined the Seattle Club of the Pacific Coast League last June.

When Harris directed him to report to the Detroit camp last March he did not regard the ex-collegian seriously as an infield regular prospect. Since the season started, however, Owen has demonstrated he is a hustler and a quick, smart student of the game.

Picking Your Right Job

TENTH ARTICLE

By L. SETON LINDSAY
Vice-President, New York Life Insurance Company.

As Told to J. V. Fitzgerald of American School of the Air. The successful insurance agent needs these qualifications:

FIRST: Integrity—honesty. No permanent success can be achieved in any line without the fundamental requirement of integrity and character.

SECOND: The ability and willingness to work hard without too much supervision. An insurance company provides instruction for new agents, but their success will depend on their own initiative and energy.

THIRD: When you have worked hard and landed a big policy and you are counting on your commissions to pay the rent and grocery bills, which are coming in, and the company writes you that your case is turned down, it takes real courage to smile, put on your hat and go right after another case. Courage is an outstanding trait of character among successful life insurance men and women.

FOURTH: A little capital, not necessarily a bank account, but credit, or backing, or help at home, which will enable the new agent to keep going for two or three months while he is getting his business started.

Business experience is valuable, because it affords an opportunity to acquire a knowledge of human nature and of how to deal with all sorts of people.

The insurance business gives the ambitious youngster an opportunity to go to the front quickly. He will be judged not by his age but by the results of his work, and if he can accomplish what older men are doing he earns just as much as they do.

You young people are the men and women of tomorrow. Thousands of you will eventually occupy

COUNTY JOURNALISTS VISIT DEVELOPMENT IN AMADOR COUNTY

Hydro Electric Plants of P. G. & E. Visited In Connection with Opening of New Tiger Creek Power House

The opening of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's new Tiger Creek power house was witnessed by about 300 newspaper men and P. G. & E. Co. employees and officials last Sunday. This new unit located on the Mokelumne river in Amador county is the latest development in the company's projected $40,000,000 development on this river. The Salt Springs power house and dam, a part of the same project were also recently completed.

The group of men from here who made the trip to the Amador projects were I. B. Adams, division manager in the San Jose district; W. P. Kellogg, Redwood City district manager; J. S. C. Ross, sales manager in the San Jose division; C. S. Maxwell, manager Burlingame office; Horace Amphet, San Mateo Times; E. E. Bramble, South San Francisco Enterprise; H. B. Cook, Jr., San Carlos Enquirer; Geo. E. Dunn, Jr., Half Moon Bay Review; L. E. Harris, Menlo Park Recorder; J. D. Hedge, Redwood City Standard; John R. Isaac, Times-Gazette, Redwood City Jack South, Burlingame Advance; William Vielhauer, Redwood City Tribune.

The ceremony of dedicating the new power house took place Sunday afternoon. The great generators were set in motion by Irving Martin, editor of the Stockton Record, who by turning a small wheel released the water from a penstock 1300 feet high against the blades of the huge wheels which turn with a minute velocity of two miles a minute.

The party of newspaper men and P. G. & E. men were taken on Saturday to inspect the Salt Springs dam and power house, which has just been placed in commission. The dam which forms an artificial lake along the canyon of the Mokelumne at a point just above the flat designated on government maps as Dead Man's Flat, is the largest dam of its type in the world. This lake furnishes the power which turns the wheels of the Salt Springs power house, located directly below the dam.

After passing through this power house and generating energy which is transmitted through a high tension power line to the recently constructed substation at Newark in Alameda county, the water is conveyed through a re-enforced concrete flume a distance of 18 miles to be used again for the creation of energy at the Tiger creek power house.

At the construction camp at the Salt Springs unit an interesting program was arranged for the entertainment of the company's guests. Motion pictures of the construction work were shown. These conveyed in a vivid manner the changes which had been wrought by the engineering activities. The canyon was shown as it had been before construction work was begun; later actual operations in the construction of both the dam and the flume were shown including the firing of one of the largest blasts ever fired at one time.

In addition to the pictures, the guests were given some interesting side lights on the project by several of the company officials. The first to speak was A. F. Hockenbeamer, president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, who spoke with regard to the pleasant relation which his company has always enjoyed with the press of California, and also spoke of the ownership of his company. Mr. Hockenbeamer refuted certain rumors that the Pacific Gas and Electric company was controlled by eastern organizations of capital. The company, he stated, is owned almost entirely by California stockholders.

A. C. Joy, manager of the P. G. & E. publicity department, introduced next P. M. Dowling, vice-president and general manager of the company, who explained the project of which the Salt Springs and Tiger Creek power houses are two units. He explained the planning which had been done for these projects, and the care with which every detail had been planned.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Recent a substitute.

freight, the biggest load being 45 tons.

The greatest task on the development program was building Salt Springs Dam, which is of the rock-fill type. It is 330 feet high, 1300 feet long at the crest, 900 feet thick at the base, and contains three million cubic yards of granite, with a layer of derrick-placed granite and a concrete water seal on its upstream face. This giant structure has created a reservoir five miles long, with a storage capacity of 130,000 acre feet of water.

Granite for the dam was quarried from the cliffs that line the canyon. On the Amador side of the river, huge sections of the mountainside were blasted down every three months or so, loaded onto electric trains by electric shovels, and dumped down into the canyon at the rate of 125,000 cubic yards a month. The greatest blast occurred in November, 1929, when 116,250 pounds of dynamite razed a section of cliff 1000 feet long, 160 feet high and 45 feet thick.

Construction of the Salt Springs-Tiger Creek conduit was an especially interesting job, in that most of it was done with equipment designed by company engineers and made by local firms. One of the mechanical marvels was a novel concrete mixer, which moved along on tracks and poured the base and sides of the flume at once, at the rate of 160 feet per day.

As a matter of fact, every operation from start to finish was carried on in the modern way—with electricity. This was possible because one of the preliminary activities was to build 45 miles of power line into the project area from the Electra plant, the nearest source of supply. Power consumption on the development to date amounts to about 24 million kilowatt hours, which is equivalent to the combined effort of about 80,000 men.

The Mokelumne project emphasizes the P. G. & E. policy of providing in advance for the future needs of the territory it serves. The company has made this huge investment and labored for five years to insure Northern and Central California adequate facilities to expand its existing industries and to attract new factories and new pay-rolls.

The principal speaker of the day was Irving Martin, who spoke at some length on the functions of the California Railroad Commission, of which he was formerly a member.

The "workings" of the power house were explained for the benefit of the guests by J. P. Jollyman, of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company engineering department.

At the invitation of President Hockenbeamer, Martin turned a small wheel on the governor of one of the large wheels and immediately the generator was placed in service.

At the dinner which followed, Horace Amphet, editor of the San Mateo Times, speaking in behalf of the newspaper men present, thanked the P. G. & E. officials and employees for the opportunity which had been given the newspaper men to view this great project, and for the wonderful hospitality which had been shown upon them.

The Mokelumne project to date represents an investment of $25,000,000, and has provided employment for an average of more than 1000 Northern California workers for four years and as many as 2500 at one time. It has meant besides, enormous sums for north-state industries, through the purchase of locally made equipment and materials.

The most remarkable thing about the gigantic job, however, is that it was so planned and so synchronized that the six units were finished simultaneously at a time set more than five years ago—and with a minimum expenditure of time and labor on each part of the work.

Completion of the project involves constructing about 20 more miles of conduits and a 20,000-horsepower generating plant at West Point, reconstructing the present Electra power house and raising its capacity from 26,000 horsepower to 80,000, not to speak of the task of turning the water of the Bear River, a tributary, into the Salt Springs power house and increasing its capacity to 48,000 horsepower. With these facilities added to the already completed units, Mokelumne water will be used in four generating plants before being returned to the regular course of the stream.

The Mokelumne has been harnessed in a canyon about 50 miles east of Jackson, in a section where the river divides Amador and Calaveras counties. Because the region is undeveloped—Martell, near Jackson, is the most convenient railroad freight depot—the company had to construct 30 miles of mountain roads before it could begin the project itself, and add 20 miles more as the job spread out. Over those roads trucks have hauled 250,000 tons of

Politically Speaking

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 16 (UP)—One of the most persistent rumors afloat along political row these days is that Frank G. Snook is tottering on his throne as chief of the state division of motor vehicles.

His job, you know, was legislated right out from under him, by the Rolph administration who created a new state department of motor vehicles so that Theodore Roche of San Francisco might be given the non-salaried job as director.

Well, it was whispered that Roche, a law partner of U. S. Senator Hiram W. Johnson, would let Snook remain as chief of the division of registration. Now, however, the story is that Rolph is to oust Snook before Roche assumes office August 14.

Will H. Marsh, former chief of the division, Riverside newspaper publisher and now a Sacramento real estate man, is understood to have an edge on the appointment if Snook goes.

There's not the slightest doubt that Dudley Moulton will fall to be appointed state director of agriculture, but Governor Rolph is giving the state board of agriculture a final showdown before he moves. If Moulton is named, look for wholesale resignations from the board as well as the department.

His appointment, however, would lend much weight to the candidacy of Simon J. Lubin, Sacramento merchant, as chief of the state division of commerce. It was Lubin, as head of the Sacramento Region Citizens' council, who brought Moulton into the limelight by sending him as a "trade scout" to South America two years ago. Lubin was later elected president of the Pan-American Institute of Reciprocal Trade, a post he now holds.

Charles B. Bills, former state senator, is also a candidate for the position Lubin seeks. It pays $6,500 a year.

Four members of the citizens' water committee authorized by the last legislature have been named by the governor. They are Matt I. Sullivan, San Francisco, former state supreme court justice; James Formerly common, the capture of a sturgeon in the lakes is now an event, particularly since the meat retails at about 50 cents a pound.

VINCENNES, July 6 (UP)—A heat story which defies science and precedent was told here by Clarence Deem, farmer living south of here. Deem said a chicken laid an egg in the yard which he neglected to pick up. It remained there several days, he said, until one afternoon he saw that the egg was gone and a newly hatched chicken was in its place. Deem claimed the egg was hatched by the sun.

William Brownrigg of Glendale has been appointed chief of the state division of personnel which administers the civil service laws, at a salary of $6,500 a year. He succeeds W. A. Johnstone of San Dimas, former president of the civil service commission, who has been acting personnel chief.

The sudden death of Mrs. Frank F. Merriam, wife of the lieutenant governor, came as a shock to Sacramento officialdom. She was very popular in state capital circles and was an inseparable companion of her husband.

Mrs. Merriam succumbed to a heart attack at Santa Rosa, when she and Mr. Merriam were returning to Sacramento from a Fourth of July observation at Eureka. The funeral was held at Long Beach, and Governor Rolph made an airplane trip in order to be present. He also ordered his executive offices closed during the afternoon of the burial.

Week at the Capitol

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 16 (UP)—An amendment to the constitution of California, adopted 40 years ago and never invoked, was resurrected from the ancient and dusty archives of the state the other day, to be placed in the constitution for the first time. It was discovered by Paul Mason, assistant secretary of the state senate, who is compiling a new edition of the constitution. The amendment, dealing with city charters, was too old to be operative. It was adopted in 1890 by the voters of California, 90,000 to 3,000.

Declaring he is "absolutely innocent," Former District Attorney Asa Keyes this week applied to Governor Rolph for a pardon from the bribery sentence he is now serving in San Quentin state prison.

Keyes maintained he was convicted by hearsay evidence, and that if he had been tried for bribery (instead of conspiracy to commit bribery) much of the testimony used against him could not have been admitted.

The governor referred the application to Dan O'Brien, director of the department of penology, for investigation.

The sound of the carpenter's hammer and saw has been heard in Governor Rolph's mansion the last few weeks, where workmen have completely redecorated Mrs. Rolph's bedroom and bathroom. The rooms have a sort of peach color scheme, and new, modern fixtures, including a pedestal wash basin, installed.

The mansion has only four servants, who include a cook, housekeeper, maid and chauffeur. The state supplies a watchman who guards the residence at night.

Estimate Made of Transportation Cost for Schools

Average Cost in County Is $23,071. Report by State Shows

By MELVIN LORDB
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, July 16 (UP)—"Going to school" in California is something more than swinging down a shady lane—particularly when it costs $2,502.813.

This amount is the cost of transporting pupils of California public schools according to an estimate reaching the state board of equalization. The total collection in the state for the fiscal year 1931 was $113,076,925 and for 1930 was $149,288,308.

Detailed figures showed that in the last year total income tax collections in California amounted to $44,642,330, of which $27,676,387 was from corporations and the remainder from individuals.

California's "Sunny Jim" march is the title of a song composed by two convicts at Folsom state prison in honor of California's governor.

The song was composed when a couple of robbers from San Francisco and Los Angeles—William Avelino and Willard L. Hudson—got together over an old piano.

The melody was inspired by the recent visit of the governor to the prison. A copy will be mailed to the executive.

Development of shipside refrigeration facilities at San Francisco will be discussed by Governor Rolph, members of the state harbor commission and others at a meeting in San Francisco July 21.

The governor asked for the conference after a meeting in his office here by a delegation who stressed the necessity for adequate wharfage and refrigeration facilities.

prepared by the state department of education.

Based on a detailed survey of school transportation costs made in 1927 and allowing for a 30 per cent increase in the last four years, it is estimated that San Mateo county spent $23,071 for transporting school pupils during the school year of 1930-31.

The importance of transportation costs in the school budget is shown by the fact that union high school districts spend, on the average, 11 per cent of the total school budget for transportation. The above figures include only operating expenses, and not the original cost of the transportation equipment.

According to a report submitted to Governor Rolph by the education department, "A reliable study in school transportation costs has shown the average cost per mile for operating school buses is 22 cents. The average cost per pupil-mile is seven tenths of a cent."

"The average daily round trip for a school bus in California has been found to be between 35 and 40 miles. The maximum distance which elementary pupils are transported is 62 miles, and for high schools, 90 miles. Approximately 30 per cent of the pupils are transported daily more than 10 miles from their homes to the schools."

As a result of the tragic Merced school bus accident in which seven children were killed, the state board of education has undertaken a study of school transportation problems, with the particular intention of compiling new rules and regulations to increase the factor of safety.

MENLO PARK

John B. Welch and his young son, John, are enjoying a camping trip to La Honda. They are accompanied by Thomas Kearney.

Samuel M. Shortridge, Jr., of Menlo Park, grand trustee for this district of the Native Sons of the Golden West, was in this city yesterday conferring with members of his order here and arranging for their participation in "California the Golden," the spectacular Native Sons and Daughters parade which will be an Admission Day feature of La Fiesta de Los Angeles.

All counties of the state have been invited to enter decorated floats in this parade, depicting historical incidents and scenic glories of their respective communities, and acceptances of the invitations are coming thick and fast at La Fiesta headquarters, the Native Sons' executive states.

The parade, he says, promises to be the most impressive demonstration ever given of California history by the Native Sons and Daughters organizations, and will be admirably fitted to the class of entertainment afforded throughout the Los Angeles fiesta, to be held from September 4 to 13.

He is urging all parlor of Native Sons to send as large delegations as possible to the celebration.

"The Los Angeles fiesta is planned as one of the greatest entertainments in America this year," he said, "and it will attract visitors from far and near, who will tour other sections of California as well as the southland, helping to improve conditions throughout the state."

Besides the Admission Day parade and a pioneers' ball, under the direction of the Native Sons and Daughters, other fiesta events include a two-day international air meet, a "Shower of Stars" parade and a movie ball furnished by the Hollywood studios, water carnivals at the beaches, a Spanish-California opera, an all-nations tournament of riders, and a grand review and night illumination of the United States fleet.

Plans for Menlo Park parlor's participation in the fiesta will be worked out shortly by committees of local members.

The city council met in regular session Tuesday evening. Anderson and Blake were absent.

City Engineer Mehl submitted a report in accordance with the recommendation of the planning commission for a change in house numbers, street names and the estimated cost of the contemplated work. He said an index map would cost $85, adjustable stencil for the street names $16, painting street names on curbs $30. The report was ordered filed.

Police Commissioner Crane submitted the report of Chief Love for the month of June which was as follows: Vehicle violations $70; other violations, $385, amount collected by police from dance hall $15, business licenses, $562.35, making a total of $1032.35.

City Engineer Mehl reported that the cost of establishing a red signal at the end of Arbor avenue at Creek Drive would cost $15. The signal would be 14 by 14 placed in concrete base and consists of 9 small lights. Mehl was authorized to proceed with the installation of the signal at once.

L. T. Diebels, the expert accountant residing in Menlo Oaks, made a lengthy report of the receipts and disbursements of the city government for the last fiscal year. The audit shows but few discrepancies in the city's bookkeeping. Some recommendations were made by Mr. Diebels. He showed that the sum of $1053.90 had been taken from the road fund to pay the salary of the officer stationed at the grammar school, when it should have been drawn from the general fund. The report shows that the balance in the general fund to be $2358.87, street improvement fund $6973.20.

The audit is a splendid showing for the city and reflects the wisdom and ability of the city council, police department and other city officials.

The building inspector announced the change of ownership of the pool room opposite the city hall. The transfer of the license was approved by the council.

City Engineer Mehl stated a certain individual, sometimes publishing a paper in Menlo Park, had gone to a widow, a property owner on Valparaiso avenue asking her to permit him to represent her at the proceedings of the Arbor avenue improvement meeting when the protests would be heard. He told the widow the proceedings were irregular and the council was grafting. Mehl convinced her that this was not so and explained the entire matter to her satisfaction. Crane said that a stop should be put to such misrepresentations.

Mayor Weeden asserted that the improvements on Arbor avenue were started at the earnest solicitation of the property owners there who were Felix McGinniss, Frank Spencer, Dr. Straub and Attorney Perry, large owners on the street. The mayor in vehement language declared that such false accusations ought to be stopped and the perpetrator punished. He was instructed by the council to see the district attorney at once and start proceedings against the man accused.

The council adjourned to Wednesday evening when the finance committee would be present to pass upon claims before the council.

The Native Sons and Native Daughters parlor will hold a joint installation in the new Masonic hall on Tuesday evening, July 23. Philip Blanchard is to be the installing officer. A number of visitors are to be present from all the bay county parlor. Following the impressive ceremony a banquet is to be enjoyed in the hall and is to be in charge of the Native Daughters. Mayor Weeden is the incoming president of Menlo Parlor. He succeeds John Braccesi who has had a very successful term as president. Much interest is centered in the forthcoming installation by all members of both parlor.

The postoffice closes every Saturday at one o'clock in accordance with the new federal law requiring employees to work only forty-four hours a week. This is a godsend to the hard working postoffice clerks. They will now have a day and a half recreation. They may thank Senator Shortridge who sponsored the bill shortening the hours of labor at the last session of congress.

The pajama dance at the Blue Moon dance hall Tuesday evening was the sensation of the season. Many young ladies of the peninsula sought the prizes offered by the management for the best costume. The first award went to a young Stockton woman. The novel dance attracted attention so that the hall was crowded with a gay set of pretty women wearing beautiful costumes having all the colors of the rainbow.

The trustees of the grammar school district will hold an important meeting tonight in the auditorium of the school building. The matter of the underpass in front of the school is to be taken up and fully debated. This will safeguard the lives of the children attending the institution. The matter of maintaining an officer will also be discussed. Heretofore the city has kept one there, but the council feels that it is a question which the trustees should deal with. No doubt the district should pay the salary of the officer as children far beyond the limits of the city attend the school.

Times and Gazette July 16, 1881

The whaler Thomas Pope, Captain Millard, arrived in this harbor yesterday afternoon, 25 days from Plover Bay, Siberia. Through her officers the loss of the whaling ships Mt. Wallaston and Vigilant, and all on board, is received.

The regular quarterly meeting of the San Mateo County Horticultural Society was held at the Germania Hall Tuesday evening.

Deer hunting and fishing are very good this year.

There are upwards of 4000 tons of last year's crop of wheat remaining in the warehouses of this place.

The Menlo Park public school has resumed its sessions after a vacation of one month. Henry C. Hall is principal with Miss Mary Hare as assistant. There are eighty-five pupils in attendance.

The O. U. R. Club, under whose auspices the recent celebration of the Fourth of July was so creditably conducted in this town, last Saturday elected the following officers for the ensuing term: President, Jerome Turner; Secretary, Henry C. Hall; Treasurer, Edward F. Fitzpatrick.

The Kreiss Family are making a good deal of a stir in this region just at present. On the morning of the Fourth of July, one of the members—and a good specimen too—suddenly made his appearance here, coming from Appleton, Wis. He was followed by others from San Francisco, Oakland and Mountain View, until there were six of them gathered, the whole number not having been together for thirty-one years. The gathering was a complete surprise to Michael and Jacob Kreiss, our worthy fellow citizens, whose presence here was the cause of the gathering.

Court System Is Target for Judge

Prison Methods Are Blamed By Judge Macintosh for Crime Element

SEATTLE, July 15—Judge Kenneth Macintosh, member of the Wickersham Crime Commission, blamed a growing intelligence among criminals, politically ruled patrol boards and inefficient prison methods for the growing crime wave throughout the United States.

Intelligent men constantly are joining the criminal ranks because of the huge profits dangled before their eyes, Macintosh declared, whereas officers who must hunt them down and arrest them do not possess the necessary intelligence and integrity.

Judge Macintosh also said the state of Washington was making no progress toward penal reform because its parole board was a political institution.

"Washington has not touched the question of intelligent, scientific parole work, and most other states are in the same position," he declared. "Something is radically wrong when men keep returning to prison. It shows that the prisons are not performing the work expected of them. They neither reform nor deter."

Macintosh said that New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts were "the most intelligent states" in regard to the handling of criminals, and listed the sound as the most backward section.
